WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

The people of the South may live in blindness to the fact that their political leaders have been a curse to them, but it does not change the fact. The time will come when they will open their eyes to their real interests, and then there will be a change in political leadership. Col. A. J. Kellar, of the Memphis it might appear so to him, but it could Avalanche, an ex-Confederate officer who fought in the "last ditch," has been in Washington some time, and writes to his paper as follows:

"Who is responsible for a renewal of the war issues? The Democratic leadership in Congress. Who forced the extra session? Democratic leaders. Who have made a fierce war on President Hayes? Democratic lead-Who have declared that the army shall not be fed, clothed and paid, and that all the executive departments of the General Government shall be closed or crippled? Democratic leaders. Who have united the Republican voters and made stalwarts out of liberals? Democratic leaders. detract anything whatever from the cooling, soothing sensation of great is secured Who are those that a year ago declared Hayes was the lawfully elected President, but who now denounce him as a fraudulent one? Democratic lead- audience made the grove ring with ers. Who are they that howl lustily for 'no troops at the polls,' and charge President Hayes with the fell purpose to give an outline of the address, for of using bayonets in elections? The same Democratic leaders who a year any circumstances. I only hope I ago approved the removal of the may be permitted soon sgain to listen the North solid? Democratic leaders.

"The most indifferent observer of political events can predict with the accuracy of figures the results of the contests of 1879 and 1880. The Democratic party will be overwhelmed with political disaster and overthrow. The South will be its sacrifice and its victim at the second Appeniation Court House, and subjecting it to a mere dependency in the Union to the triumphant and dominant North.

"Under sectional politics the South will not increase its population nor ever held its own. The calamities of the yellow fever plague are almost equaled by the follies and crimes of be allies in the devastating work of spreading poverty and ruin in tile

We believe the time is not far off, indeed, we believe it is already at arrived at the same conclusion reached by Col. Kellar.

JUDGE KEY AND THE SOUTH,

The National Republican of recent date, pays the following tribute to Postmaster General Key's interest manifested in religious matfidelity to the Government of which he is a faithful servant:

"Mr. Key has proved faithful to the Government, and the unity, peace, and welfare of the entire country since he entered upon his duties as a Cabinet Minister. This fact stands out in bold relief, and becomes a sufficient justification for his selection to fill au important trust in the Government, Faithful, per se, he stands to-day in the midst of a wreck of bad faith throughout that section of the nation which he geographically represents, a proud monument of manly integrity; a friend of the Government without reserve; as a staunch supporter of the laws; a defender of the Constitution as an entirety, and a contemper of the bad faith which has been exhibited toward the President in his sincere attempts at conciliation and restoration Dade, of Taylorsville, Johnson county, First National Bank of Knoxville vs. John of good feeling and good fellowship Tannessee, took the premium of Baxter and E. He surveys the field in the midst of the disturbed condition of the country with philosophic candor, and has no concealment of his aversion for the policy of the Democratic party as presented in the present Congress. He stands by the Government with unflinching devotion, and forms and expresses his opinions without hesitation. He has recently said in reference to the next Presidency that unless there should be a change in the feeling between the North and South, General Grant would surely be the Republican nominee for President, and he thought that if there was perfect tranquility in the country, and no threatened disturbance, then some other throughout the nation. No man in the Cabinet has stood with more commendable firmness against the attempted encroachments upon Executive power by an insolent majority in Congress, than has the Postmaster-General.

Nom D'Plume. MOSHEIM, TENN., May 30, 1879. MR. EDITOR: I notice in the Greeneville Democrat of May 28th, a communication from the pea of one bearing the title of "Nom D'Plume." The writer proposes to give a brief outline of the commencement at Mosheim College, which he does by using slang phrases, burlesques, etc., which would be no doubt very becoming to. the gentleman, were he known otherwise than as the famous "Nom D'Plume." He elaborated freely on the baccalaureate sermon, preached by President Barb, in which he plays "intimate Christian," and calls him Bro. Barb. This intimacy may please President Barb, but don't think he will claim it as a compliment, unless the writer will prove his name to be far more honorable than his communication. Next he compliments the musical concert given by Prof. Glenn, in which he uses familiar quotations from Shakespeare, and Byron. The eulogy on the concert (compared to the remainder of the communication) was very good, but we think the immortal poets would blush to see their favorite gleanings of literature shine forth in that communication like silver stars in the frowning thunder-cloud for Class in a very becoming manner. Next he says: "The oration of Mr. P. C. Ottinger gave rise to the question whether it was Latin, French, Dutch, or bad English." To this we will say, appear so only to the casual and ignorant observer. We don't suppose Mr. Ottinger intended his Latin quotations for any but the enlightened mind, hence Mr. "Nom D'Plume's" failure to understand him thoroughly. Mr. Ottinger's oration was considered by all as an excellent piece of composition, and the Latin only served to add spice to the already good composition. The literary address by Major Pettibone was next noticed by the writer, in which he says, "The Major delivered himself of a lengthy harangue, and we could not help thinking of the soapstone slab." Now, it is impossible for me to attempt to ascribe the praise due this excellent address, and equally as impossible for Mr."Nom D'Plume, with his little smattering of words, to commendable effort. The Major, instead of being lengthy, occupied only about fifty-eight minutes, and the whole applause when the "Modern Cicero" resumed his seat. I will not attempt every one knows he fails not under troops from the South by Hayes! Who to the "Literary Hero" of East Tennesthen has exhumed the bloody shirt? Democratic leaders. Who is making three hours instead of fifty eight minutes. The commencement was a grand success, and surpassed any we have witnessed on former occasions. The young ladies and gentlemen acquited themselves honorably, without one single exception.

In conclusion, I will tender my best wishes for the success of the institution and the success of Mr. "Nom D' Plume" as a newspaper correspondent. With best wishes for your paper, I am, very respectfully. WM. H. GASS.

BEAVER RIDGE, June 3. MR. EDITOR: Quite a serious mis-Democratic leaders, and they seem to fortune happened to one of our citizens Saturday: Mr. Dick Smith's house caught fire and nearly everything he had in the house was lostall the wheat, bacon, and everything he had on hands to eat was lost; also hand, when a large number of the all their wearing apparel and bed thoughtful people of the South have clothes were burnt. In fact nearly everything was a total loss.

We had quite a pleasant shower yesterday. Wheat is very fine in this valley and we hope to have an excellent yield this year of a splendid quality of grain.

It is very encouraging to see how our farmers are improving their farms in this neighborhood, and to see the ters. We have three splendid new churches in this neighborhood, and will, probably, in a short time, have the fourth. There are also three good public school houses near this place and we think, with Prof. F. M. Smith at the head of the public schools in this county, we will have good publie schools in our district this fall.

We have three splendid Sunday Schools in this neighborhood, where the children are gathered in every Sunday and taught to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy. We think that we will have a grand union jubilee some time this summer.
